Justification

As a special topic honors colloquium, this co-taught course was successfully offered in fall 2013 (Eval_rate the course: 4.4). Students' class performance and their high quality essays showed that they were able to cross discipline boundaries and integrate the knowledge of history, economics, and political sciences into one coherent entity. Transforming this newly created course into a catalog one will provide students who develop an interest in fields like Asian studies/History/International trade more opportunities to specialize. Furthermore, the newly created courses will both meet the demand of increasing number of History Major students and strengthen the curriculum in Asian Studies, History, Political Science, and Economics.

Additional Notes | Cross-listed with HIST 4533 & PLSC 4533
